I greatly appreciate the EPA's work in creating the proposed cleanup plan

However, this is the best and perhaps the only big opportunity we will have to clean up this significant natural resource and huge asset, which runs through the heart of Oregon's biggest city. This is our river and we should aim to bring it to the best condition possible.

I believe that the proposed cleanup plan should remove a greater amount of contaminated sediment, with correspondingly less reliance on monitored natural recovery. The cleanup plan should include a target date for ending the fish consumption advisory related to pollutants in the Portland Harbor area.
